COLLEGE READY FOR 'BULGE'

One of 16 interlocking portable school units is shown being unloaded today at the site of Okanagan College's new expanded facilities behind the Kelowna Vocational School. The $121,000 building will provide 10,000 square feet of extra space preparatory to the school's expected 300 enrolment in September. Bought on a five-year lease-purchase contract, the portable unit was precipitated by over-crowded facilities at the Kelowna Secondary School.

NOTE FROM CHINA

Soviet Warned On 'Intrusions'

TOKYO (AP) — China told the Soviet Union in a note Tuesday to stop "intrusions and provocations" or face responsibility "for all the grave consequences arising therefrom."

The note from the foreign ministry to the Soviet embassy in Peking said that between June 1 and July 31 "the Soviet government created as many as 439 incidents of provocation along the border."

It gave no information on casualties except to say that a clash Aug. 13 on the border of China's Sinkiang province was a "grave incident of bloodshed" and that three Chinese frontier guards were wounded by Soviet gunfire June 11 in the area of a dispute Manchurian border is called Chenpao by China and Damansky by Russia. Two bloody clashes broke out there in March.

The note, broadcast by Peking's official New China news agency, listed a series of incidents and said they show that "while professing that 'urgent practical measures should be taken to normalize the situation on the Soviet-Chinese border," the Soviet government has actually "adopted measures to ceaselessly aggravate tension along the border."

The note said the Chinese demand "that the Soviet government immediately stop all its activities of intrusion and provocation against China, immediately dismantle all the installations and military works it has illegally built up and desist from further obstructing the normal navigation of Chinese vessels on Chinese-Soviet boundary rivers."

The note said Soviet military planes had flown as deep as 12 miles into Chinese air space for reconnaissance and provocation. It charged that Soviet troops had built an observation tower in Yulin County in western Sinkiang, scene of the clash this month, and had penetrated 1.8 miles inside Chinese territory to build a road and set up illegal boundary markers.

Canadian Questioned, Freed, In L.A. Mass Slayings Case

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Police Inspector Harold Yarnell says "we're developing quite a list of people we'd like to talk to" about the grisly murders of actress Sharon Tate and four other persons Aug. 8.

Yarnell told reporters Monday "we've made discreet inquiries about people throughout the country" but "they're not suspects."

One of those whose name has been made public, Canadian Thomas Michael Harrigan, talked with detectives for 3½ hours Monday. He said later he knew four of the victims but nothing about the deaths. He was not held.

Harrigan, 27, an unemployed personnel consultant, said he went to police headquarters with a lawyer after hearing a broadcast saying authorities wanted to question him.

Asked what information Harrigan had about the deaths, the lawyer, Paul Caruso, said, "None whatever."

Harrigan told reporters he was at a party, then at home Aug. 8 and early Aug. 9 in Manhattan Beach, about 20 miles from the rented $200,000 estate where the five were killed.

Children, Vacationers Killed As French Lake Boat Flips

THONON-LES-BAINS, France (CP) — Twenty-two persons died when an excursion boat capsized Monday in a sudden squall on Lake Geneva, officials said today.

The converted tug Fraideux, 79 yards from shore,

The holidaymakers included a number of children from summer camps.

Officials counted 34 survivors, including five recovering in hospitals. There were eight bodies; including those of four persons who died in hospitals.

Ten of the missing were believed to be young girls from Metz, France, who had gone on the vessel with a camp excursion.

Witnesses said a powerful north wind hit the single-deck boat from the front and sent passengers tumbling to the stern, filling the craft with water. It did not sink.

"This seemed to upset the equilibrium and as it tilted violently about 30° it fell into the water," said fisherman Roland Condeveaux, who pulled in 12 of the survivors.

SWIMMERS HELP
Bathers from a nearby camping site swam out and helped bring other survivors ashore. The vessel sank only 70 yards from shore but few of the small children aboard could swim.

IRA And 'B Specials' Keep Ulster Tense

BELFAST (CP) — Fervent debate about the underground Irish Republican Army and conflicting demands involving the future of Ulster's special police force kept the Northern Ireland atmosphere tense today as Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark prepared for crucial London talks with Britain's Harold Wilson.

A statement by the IRA, an anti-British force seeking Irish reunification, that it had worked to defend Roman Catholics during last week's riots, was quickly interpreted by Chichester-Clark's supporters as vindicating his views of the disturbances.

Observers here were saying that the hand of the prime minister, who blamed the riots primarily on militants such as the IRA, may have been strengthened by the secret organization's statement.

But Catholic spokesmen still maintained that the "B special" police, a part-time volunteer force of the Ulster government, fanned the flames of violence by favoring the Protestant cause during riots that left eight persons dead and hundreds injured.

The Catholics demand that Chichester-Clark and Prime Minister Wilson decide on disbanding or disarming the specials. They were to meet late this afternoon.

MEET TODAY
Chichester-Clark's summit talks with Wilson could be a deciding factor in the future of deeply-divided Northern Ireland.

Although police said Belfast was quiet Monday night for the third straight night—one gasoline bombing was reported—only the presence of British troops in the tense no man's land was keeping warring Protestants and Catholic factions apart.

Police Hunting Adaptor-Escapee

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—Police are continuing the search for a prison escapee who took a 12-year-old girl with him into bushland in the Mount Thurston area near this community, 60 miles east of Vancouver.

Police are using tracking dogs in the search for 35-year-old parole violator John Kenneth Mason, who overpowered a guard yesterday while being transferred to the British Columbia penitentiary from a work camp near here.

Officials say Mason forced the guard to drive to a home in the Chilliwack area, where the 12-year-old girl, Mason's stepdaughter, was picked up.

The guard was then forced to drive the two to a wooded area where the man took the girl and fled on foot.

Escapee Swims Sea To Freedom

LUEBECK (AP) — A former member of East Germany's Olympic swimming team escaped to West Germany Monday by swimming 12 miles across the Baltic Sea, police reported today.

Axel Milbauer, 19, was plucked off a buoy in the Bay of Luebeck by a ferryboat after swimming out to sea from a camping area on the East German coast, police said.

Milbauer told police he fled to the West because officials expelled him from the East German Olympic swim team for maintaining friendships with West German athletes.

Tourist Brochure All Shot

DUBLIN (Reuters) — Embarrassment abounded Tuesday at the Northern Irish tourist office in the capital of the Irish Republic when a new brochure arrived from Belfast suggesting Ulster is the place for a "shooting holiday."

The pamphlet, extolling the virtues of hunting in strife-torn Ulster, declared:

"It is with the greatest pleasure and satisfaction that the tourist board is able to introduce shooting holidays in Ulster."

"We are able to make available to you, with a .303 rifle, a full day's shooting in the last few days of the world."

But, in the aftermath of violence last week in which eight persons were shot to death, a member of the board's staff commented: "It is shooting for groups, not guides." In Belfast, a spokesman for the Northern Ireland tourist board said the brochure will be withdrawn.

TWO CRUX CASE DECISIONS TO BE DISPUTED IN NASSAU

NASSAU (CP) — Lawyers for the Canadian and British Columbia governments will go before a Bahamas Supreme Court judge on Monday, Sept. 29, in an attempt to force Magistrate John Bailey to rescind two decisions he has made in the A. G. Duncan Crux extradition case.

The hearing, on a writ of mandamus brought by Patrick Totho, Nassau lawyer representing the Canadian government in the extradition case, will be held in chambers before either Chief Justice Sir Ralph Campbell or Mr. Justice James Smith.

Totho received Supreme Court permission on July 31 to file the writ.

In it he seeks to have the magistrate abandon a ruling that he will hear no witnesses at the Crux hearing, relying solely on the evidence contained in five bulky dispositions from a Vancouver hearing.

In the double-barrelled application, Totho also will seek to have the magistrate vacate his decision of July 30 that the evidence presented against Crux on 10 charges of publishing false prospectuses is insufficient to justify extradition.

Group May Sell $5 Shares To Keep Jack Brow Here

A group selling shares at $5 each may be organized to pay Jack Brow's wages and keep him in Kelowna.

Frank Addison, speaking to Kelowna city council Monday night, said he would be willing to organize such a group if the decision to fire the former recreation director is not reversed.

Mr. Addison, who spoke on behalf of the B.C. Festival of Sports, said the friction suspected in the Kelowna parks and recreation office leading to Mr. Brow's dismissal was "not unique."

"The problem is common and it is because of a lack of knowledge on the part of the parks end, a lack of experience, they do not fully understand the recreation, sports and physical fitness side of it," he said.

Mr. Addison suggested if the Jack Brow crisis could be resolved and the recreation director reinstated then the parks and recreation departments should be separated into two departments.

If he is not reinstated, Mr. Addison will attempt to sell "about 2,000 shares at $5 apiece" to keep Mr. Brow in the community and let him carry out recreation programs.

Mayor R. F. Parkinson, in his

first public statement since the controversy flared in a 300-strong public meeting last week, told a full house of council chambers "the matter was getting full attention."

"Although I do not have any children, nobody has been closer to Jack Brow than I have and I know he does good work," Mayor Parkinson said after three letters had been read and three people made statements in support of Mr. Brow.

"Things are going on and I hope something will come of it," he added.

The mayor told the group, which presented a petition bearing 500 signatures, that Mr. Brow often "wouldn't be bound to authority."

Blair Peters, vice-chairman of the seven-man "citizens for Jack Brow committee," said his group had not received a promised brief from the parks and recreation commission.

He added they hoped to have the report late Monday night or today.

The parks and recreation commission, which recommended Mr. Brow be asked to resign or be dismissed, promised a written report explaining why the recreation director was fired.

Mr. Peters said his committee would meet "more than once" to peruse the reasons given and be present at the next council meeting.

Hoffa Returns To Courtroom

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — James Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, returned today to the courtroom of the 1964 trial to challenge his conviction on jury-tampering charges.

Hoffa, who has served 30 months of an eight-year prison term to which he was sentenced following the conviction, won another chance at freedom under a United States Supreme Court-ordered investigation into wiretapping and "bugging" by federal agents during his trial.

U.S. District Court Judge Frank W. Wilson, the 1964 trial judge, was directed to determine whether conversations involving Hoffa overheard by federal agents using listening devices violated the United States rights under the United States constitution's fourth amendment which aims to protect the freedom of speech.

Five Die In Bar After Drink Refused

BOGOTA (Reuters) — Five persons were killed in a bar Sunday when a young soldier pulled the pin on a grenade after the bar owner ordered him to stop drinking and get out, a newspaper reported today.

The incident took place in a bar in the town of Bogota, capital of Colombia.

Vast Mopping Up Operation Follows Hurricane's Wake

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — An increasingly grim picture of Hurricane Camille's devastation along the Gulf Coast emerged today as rescue workers uncovered 23 bodies in an apartment house, raising the death toll to at least 128. Three more were killed in Cuba.

"We know there are more bodies," said State Senator Nap Cassibry, co-ordinator of civil defence along Mississippi's coastal strip. "We estimate the final toll will be between 150 and 200."

It was still too early for an estimate of damage along the coastal resort area, but Cassibry estimated $500,000,000 in damages to coastal military installations alone.

Civil defence and other officials set what they termed a "war council" for later in the morning to tighten up operations in the hard-hit area.

More than 2½ inches of rain poured onto Memphis through Monday night, nearly two inches fell at Blytheville, Ark.

"We've got a management problem," said Wade Guice, a civil defence spokesman. "We're running a supermarket with a clerk."

AGNEW ON HAND

Guice said Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew was expected to survey the situation personally in Gulfport and sources said Agnew already was in the area. Agnew's office in Washington was non-committal, however.

Meanwhile, the weather bureau in New Orleans said hard-hitting Camille has been relegated to the status of a rain storm and was centred over southwestern Kentucky and Tennessee this morning.

Its highest winds were about 35 miles an hour.

More than 2½ inches of rain poured onto Memphis through Monday night, nearly two inches fell at Blytheville, Ark.

Brick Apartments Crushed

Rescue workers uncovered 23 bodies in the modern three-storey Richelieu apartments in Pass Christian. The police chief there said a large group was holding a hurricane party in the brick building while waiting out Camille.

The weight of the wreckage left by Camille was hampering work by 1,500 National Guard troops, 500 civil defence workers and many volunteers this morning.

"We have enough people to do the work," said Cassibry. "What we need is supplies." Supplies were coming.

TO FLY FOOD

At Atlanta, a dozen C-124 Globemasters at Dobbins Air Force Base were assigned to airlift 375,000 pounds of food to Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi. New Orleans shipped 13,000 gallons of water in tank cars to ravaged Bay St. Louis, just across the state line.

President Nixon declared the state's coastal strip a disaster area, making it eligible for an initial $1,000,000 in federal assistance.

Camille, lashing first at the southeastern edge of Louisiana, shrieked onto the Mississippi coast Sunday night.

The area of maximum force around the eye—included the port city of Gulfport, with 30,000 residents, and nearby Biloxi with 44,000. Thousands of residents of the coastal strip, warned of coming tides of up to 20 feet above normal, fled inland before Camille arrived.

Biloxi and Gulfport were under 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew. National guardsmen, armed with rifles, patrolled to prevent looting.

CITY CRITICAL
A curfew also was in force at Bogalusa, a city of some 21,500 in Louisiana. Mayor Curt Siegel said power lines were down, drinking water was scarce and the city in "critical condition."

Martial law was imposed in Louisiana's Plaquemines Parish (county) at sundown Monday. Angry deputies turned back angry residents trying to check on their homes.

The parish is a low delta land, laid down over the centuries by the Mississippi River's silt. Officials said the communities of Venice, Boothville and Triumph were wiped out.

"There are no homes there," said Parish Commissioner Howard Wilcox. "There are no grocery stores. Nothing, period. A few telephone poles, tugs in the marsh, houses in the marsh—parts of them."

Former Czech Leader Dubcek Faulted For Pre-Invasion Policy

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Communist party leader Gustav Husak today blamed the leadership of his liberal predecessor Alexander Dubcek for disregarding warnings which led to the Warsaw pact invasion a year ago.

But in a broadcast speech, Husak did not go as far as to admit the invasion was justified—as many observers before-hand had predicted he might.

Such an admission, he said, would have to be made by the central committee of the party.

The speech was given to 8,000 cheering industrial and labor union officials. Husak delivered a string of talks, letters and contacts between Soviet and Czechoslovak leaders before the invasion occupation, charging the Dubcek leadership with not taking any action against ultra-rightists.

"If they (the party leadership under Dubcek) had turned the mass media against the rightist forces then there would have been no Aug. 21 and no intervention," he said.

Immediately after the march in Russia said the invading Warsaw pact troops had been invited because of the Czechoslovak internal political situation.

Husak said today the Czechoslovak leaders last year, received a final warning on the afternoon of Aug. 20—a few hours before the troops started marching in. But, he added, "the president did not start discussion of the letter until 2300 (11 p.m.) at night—an hour after it was announced that the troops had crossed into our country."

"In this fateful moment so little attention was given to this serious document," he said. "It was a rare political mistake and a failure of leadership that cost lives and led to the invasion from our side" that the warnings of the Soviet Union and the other Warsaw pact countries were disregarded.

New Coal Developments For West Canada Soon

New development of Western Canada coal deposits could take place "very soon," said a spokesman for seven major Japanese steel producers Monday in Vancouver. Hisamoto Cho of Nippon Kokan Kabushiki Kaisha, was leading a nine-man delegation to B.C. mines department as part of a three-week visit to Canadian coal developments by Japanese government coal contracts. He said there is general interest among Japan's steel men for new coal mining prospects in B.C. and Alberta, which will ship 150 million tons of coking coal to Japan in the next 15 years.

A medical team from the Montreal Health Institute left for Santo Domingo today to perform 10 open heart operations at the Salvadore B. Gautier Hospital in the Dominican Republic. The team is headed by Dr. Pierre Grondin and Dr. Gilles Lepage and includes an anesthetist, operating room nurse, intensive care unit nurse, technician and one other doctor. Dr. Grondin, who has carried out nine of Canada's 15 heart transplant operations, said in an interview there now are no open heart operations performed in Santo Domingo "even though the standard of medical practice is fine."

The body of Philip Balberg, who survived the odds against a transplant, was returned to his home in Cape Town. Although autopsy results were not yet known, Dr. Christian N. Barnard, the surgeon who gave Balberg his new heart 19½ months ago, said final analysis would show that death came from an unstopable rejection. Dr. Barnard was among more than 500 mourners who jammed a small stone chapel at Cape Town's suburban Maitland crematorium where Rabbi David Sherman delivered a eulogy to the 60-year-old retired dentist.

The Vatican newspaper says Philip Balberg's death should be a lesson to those who exalt man's "experimental" capabilities. The daily L'Osservatore

Three persons killed Sunday in a two-car crash 12 miles south of Prince George were identified Monday as Gilbert Lloyd Martin, 26, of Prince George, and his three-year-old daughter Sandy. Mrs. Martin and her two-year-old son Randy were in serious condition Monday in hospital. John Gilbert of Prince George, driver of the second car, was in fair condition.

T. C. Douglas, making use of a recent poll that shows a New Democratic Party upsurge in national popularity, attracted crowds during a tour of Saanich and the Gulf Islands. The national NDP leader and local candidate Don Johannessan attended a fall fair on Mayne Island, then drew more than 250 people to a pot luck supper on Saltspring Island. The poll, which Mr. Douglas repeatedly quoted from, shows NDP popularity climbing from 14 to 24 per cent while Liberal strength faded from 46 to 39 per cent and Progressive Conservative popularity went from 32 to 29 per cent.

Eric W. Hawkins, 80, editor emeritus of the International Herald Tribune, was found dead in his Paris apartment Monday. His death was attributed to natural causes. A Briton, Hawkins came to Paris in 1915. By 1924 he was managing editor of the old Paris Herald. On June 12, 1940 he put out a one-page edition of the Herald as German troops stood at the gates to Paris. It was the last free newspaper published in Paris for years.

Israel Grabs 4 Guerrillas

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Four Arab guerrillas were killed, two wounded and 10 captured Monday night and this morning, a military spokesman said today.

Acting on information that a large guerrilla band was hiding in the Almo' Azin quarter east of Gaza, security forces early today threw a cordon around the area and ordered a curfew.

As they advanced into the quarter, settled mainly by Arab refugees, the Israelis came under fire and in a short clash three armed guerrillas were killed. Two others, who tried to escape, were wounded and 10 men suspected of belonging to the band were captured, the spokesman said.

No Israelis were hurt in the raid.

Members of the guerrilla band were believed to have been responsible for a large number of incidents in the Gaza Strip area recently, the spokesman said.

The curfew is still in force and investigations are continuing, he added.

Another Arab guerrilla was killed during armed clashes in the Jordan Valley Monday night when an Israeli patrol intercepted a band of guerrillas near El-Mandassah Ford.

ACCUSED GAVE JUDGE A CHANCE

VICTORIA (CP) — "I'll give you one more chance, your honor," Roger Lindal told Provincial Judge William Ostler Monday.

The judge looked somewhat startled, the court clerk buried his head a little deeper in the pile of summonses before him, and people in the courtroom smiled.

The sudden outburst of generosity by Lindal, charged with assaulting a police officer, came after Judge Ostler had assured him that he was in no way biased or prejudiced.

"The moment a case is finished, I dismiss it from my mind. I can assure you," he told the accused.

"Well your honor, ever since I first appeared before you, 10 years ago, you've convicted me every time," Lindal replied.

"Although it is not your right to ask for a transfer to another judge, I will be glad to have you tried by someone else if you feel that I am prejudiced," Judge Ostler said.

"Well your honor, I'll give you one more chance," Lindal replied.

The case was remanded to Aug. 26.

Double-Edged U.S. Move Being Studied By Lebanon

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — Lebanese diplomats at the UN today were deciding whether to accept an American Council resolution which condemns Israel but also carries an implicit condemnation of Arab guerrilla activities.

Informed sources said the draft was submitted to the Lebanese by the U.S. delegation as a compromise countering a harsher Afro-Asian resolution condemning the Jewish state for air attacks on Lebanon eight days ago.

The Afro-Asian resolution made no mention of Arab guerrilla attacks and Britain and the U.S. were reported to have refused to support any condemnation unless it applied to both Israel and the guerrillas.

Israeli warplanes hit alleged Arab guerrilla bases in what the Israelis described as retaliation raids for attacks launched from Lebanese soil. The U.S. document—which would go before the Security Council if accepted by the Lebanese—condemns the "pre-meditated" Israeli attack and all violent incidents in violation of the ceasefire—an implicit rebuke to Arab commandos.

THINK WILL PASS Informed sources said the Lebanese probably would accept the American draft resolution with minor modifications and predicted it would be passed by the Security Council.

No date has yet been set for resumption of the Security Council debate on Lebanon's complaint against Israel. The 15-member council was expected to reconvene later today.

But Arab diplomats indicated the Middle East debate might be postponed until Wednesday.

Strong U.S. Force Heads Out To Beleaguered Vietnam GIs

TODAY'S STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — All major indexes showed strong advances in moderately active mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Western oils continued to an early pace. The western oil highlight the market as they set index gained 2.87 to 247.01. Security-Rainbow rose 1¼ to 27½.

Industrials made a good early showing after closing almost 1½ points higher Monday. The industrial index was up .89 to 173.27. This is the fourth consecutive session that industrials have been up.

The gold index, after easing more than two points Monday, was up .52 to 189.20 following news that the British pound was weaker in foreign exchange dealings. Canadian gold stocks tend to attract foreign investors during periods of economic uncertainty.

Base metals continued to strengthen as rumors of a copper price rise for Canada increased. Devaluation of the French franc combined with the proposed nationalization of Zambian copper has put the domestic price of copper in Canada, 53 cents, at the lower end of the world structure.

The base metal index was up 78 to 106.23. Patino was up ½ to 35, Pine Point ¾ to 37, Hollinger ½ to 31½ and Bethlehem ½ to 14½.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 631,000 shares traded compared with 318,000 at the same time Monday. Declines outnumbered advances 154 to 71 with 194 issues unchanged.

Canadian Breweries was up 7½ to 99½. The company announced an extra dividend of $1 to be paid Oct. 31.

Pack up your goodies and steal away to this shady spot, one of the finest picnic sites around Kelowna. A scenic drive up Knox Mountain takes you to this secluded spot, clearly marked as a picnic site on the road to the top.

Park benches, shade trees and privacy are the drawing factors at the park. If you like, stop first at the top of Knox Mountain and scan the city from the vantage point there. Miles of Okanagan Lake and surrounding hills are visible in all directions.

AT AIRPORT

Customs Closure Upsets Officials

Kelowna airport manager Eric Davidson and city officials have reacted strongly against a Canada Customs move to close its operations at most B.C. airports during nights and weekends.

The shorter hours, to go into effect at the end of August, were labelled a "definite backward step" by Mr. Davidson in a letter to city council. He requested the matter be turned over to the city's staff administration committee for consideration.

Mr. Davidson's comments were echoed by Mayor R. F. Parkinson, who said Monday he and the aviation committee feel the customs move is a "backward step". "As a service which the government gets money for, it is very strange they should remove the service from all but three or four of the province's airports," he said.

Affecting private, non-scheduled aircraft, the new regulations will mean a stop at Penitence for aircraft from the U.S. that would arrive here "after hours".

The customs office at Kelowna airport will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and the old practice of private flyers paying a $5 fee to bring a customs official to the airport will be discontinued. This would mean an aircraft from Kelowna which visited, for example, Spokane, would have to stop at Penitence on its way back. So would a U.S. aircraft wishing to land here.

Penitence, Vancouver and Calgary are the only western airports that will continue with round-the-clock or callout customs service. Kelowna, Vernon, Kamloops and Prince George will all have their customs hours cut.

Regular airlines will have their aircraft met by customs officials and will not be affected by the new ruling.

Mayor Parkinson mentioned heavy criticism of the ruling given by the Northwest Flyer, the "spokesman" for private aviators in the western continent.

He said he has asked the aviation committee—which handles Kelowna's airport matters—to make recommendations to council as soon as possible.

SEEN and HEARD

Kelowna had one of its most unusual sunsets in a long while Monday night. Beginning about 7:30 p.m., the sun dropped below the heavy overcast of steel grey clouds giving a distinct greenish tinge. In the east, the hills were lit by red fire and topped by clouds like grey peanut butter. When the sun finally sank below the hills across Okanagan Lake, it fired up the western sky in strangely-shaped, burnished gold clouds which blended with the green. The whole display died into a spread of weirdly shaped mottled clouds about 8:15 p.m.

These service stations are well-known and well-patronized because of the good service they offer. But one station, at the Glenmore Street-Bernard Avenue intersection has really perfected the ultimate in service. This service station doesn't have a service station from which to dispense service. The old station has been demolished and work has just begun on a new operation. But the gas line pumps remain, the office is a trailer and it's business as usual—well almost.

Talk about tit for tat. Saturday the premier was in Mines Minister Frank Richter's riding boosting his campaign and Monday Mr. Richter was in Westbank boosting Premier Bennett's campaign.

Mrs. H. L. Friesen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, RR 5, Kelowna, was among 100 students obtaining bachelor of science degrees this summer at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich. The degree covers elementary education and home economics.

Then there was the politician who sent out waves of form letters soliciting campaign funds. Each letter was addressed only to "occupant" of the homes. After several major sweeps with his mail, the politician one day opened an answering letter to discover a cheque for $5,000. Grinning with glee he glanced quickly down to see who had been so generous. The cheque was signed "occupant".

An old gent walking down Lawrence Avenue today was torn between dignity and economy when he rapped a discarded cigarette package with his cane and it did not flutter away with the usual sound of an empty. He stared at it then went to walk away, then returned, looking carefully around before stooping quickly and picking it up. Still looking to see if he had been observed, he pecked carefully inside. His face fell when it proved empty and with a muttering grumble he hurled it into the gutter and walked quickly away.

MUNICIPAL BRIEFS

Council Told Of New Pollution Controls

Detailed proposals for province-wide air pollution controls have been received by the Kelowna city council. Released late in July, the proposed standards have been widely reported and were welcomed Monday night by the council. Plans call for air pollution controls to be instituted in stages, by 1975.

On another pollution problem, involving water, Ald. Hilbert Roth reported work has started on a better channel for Brandy Creek in Kelowna's north end, to keep the water flowing more quickly. Ald. Roth said channel improvements were only an interim step and provincial and federal government officials, along with city personnel, are examining the whole creek and expected to suggest more permanent measures to end the pollution problem. Ald. Roth said he looked forward to the day when industries along the creek would find other ways of disposing of their waste. Ald. Richard Stewart said investigators would find a problem with residential areas further up the creek, where septic tanks drain into the creek.

The Kelowna International Regatta Association has been given permission to continue using the old Mill Street museum building for storing important papers and for meetings, until the building is required by the city for other purposes.

Regatta director-general Dick Gunoff, who appeared at the council meeting to seek continuing use of the old museum, was congratulated along with his directors and committee members, for a fine production of the 1969 Regatta. The council agreed with Ald. E. R. Winter, who said residents of Kelowna and district "owe them a real vote of thanks."

Mr. Gunoff reported Kelowna's royal party received a fine reception and gave Kelowna a big boost during weekend festivities at Cranbrook. Recently crowned Lady of the Lake Vicki Hoole is from Cranbrook and she made a return visit to her home town along with her lady-in-waiting, Sandra Curtis and retinue of the lake Marina Maundrell.

The council expressed wishes of good luck for Miss Maundrell, who leaves for Vancouver this weekend to represent Kelowna in the Miss Pacific-National Exhibition contest.

Any group seeking a grant for staging a sports event during next year's B.C. festival of sports has been urged to get its bid in early. The festival will be held during the last two weeks of May and any group seeking a government grant should contact Frank Addison, Ald.-Stewart, or Ald. Winter.

Assistant city engineer Vince Borch told the council surveyors at work recently along Pandosy Street were completing a legal survey monument project begun in 1965. Among other things, the completed survey will help speed future land survey matters.

Commenting on reports that Kelowna officials missed a civic dinner during the Penitence Peach Festival, Mayor R. F. Parkinson said he and Kelowna Chamber of Commerce president Gordon Hirtle attended the Peach Festival parade and put

Water Safety Short Course

A chance to "bone-up" on water safety has been provided by the Kelowna Parks and Recreation Commission with introduction of the Red Cross water safety instructor's school, which began Monday at the Ogopogo Pool.

Offering training in various instructor levels, the course is open to two age groups. Candidates must be 16 by Dec. 31 to qualify for leader training, and 18 years of age by Dec. 31 to participate in instructor classes. Leader training hopefuls must have a senior Red Cross or YMCA fifth star, as well as a bronze medallion or YMCA senior lifesaver status. Instructor or training candidates must have a Red Cross Leader, or senior Red Cross as well as a bronze medallion or YMCA lifesaver.

Registration fees are $5 for leader and instructor applicants (with leader certification), $10 for instructor candidates (with no previous training) and $3 for re-qualifying instructor students. Pool time is 6 p.m., followed by lectures in the parks and recreation office at 8:30 p.m. The course ends Saturday.

Funeral Friday

Funeral services will be held from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Friday at 10 a.m., for Joseph Fenrich, 90, who died Monday.

Surviving Mr. Fenrich are two sons, Jack and Peter, both leaders, Sask., three daughters, Mrs. Leogadia Wagner, of Shauven, Sask., Mrs. P. (Annie) Stoltz, of Kelowna, Mrs. Philomena Wagner, of Leader, one stepson, Andrew Koch, of Rutland, two step-daughters, Mrs. Katie Faut, of Kerrobert, Sask., Mrs. Mary Carson, of Nanaimo, one brother, Timothy, 80, great grandchildren, one great, great grandchild, 18 step grandchildren and one great, great grandchild. He was predeceased by his wife, Rose, in 1964, one daughter in 1962 and one son in 1929.

Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. R. D. Anderson, assisted by Rev. Thomas Fulco, with interment at Kelowna cemetery. Prayers and rosary will be recited in Day's Chapel of Reimbursement, Thursday at 8 p.m.

KEEP TURNING THAT WAY, NO, NO, CUT IT BACK QUICK

Anyone with a driver's licence will likely recall with mixed feelings their first efforts to learn how to drive. Whether they learned in a farm vehicle, from their parents, or in a driver-training unit, they will probably admit they had problems mastering the parallel parking routine. Even in Kelowna, where much of the parking is angle, the friendly driver examiner still makes you parallel park.

So, there was the scene on Water Street Monday night. For 40 minutes, two females, one teaching, the other learning, tried to get their green station wagon parked. They even asked permission from the owner of the car in front to practice on (beside and behind, hopefully) his car.

One woman got out and gave a series of hand signals, at times touching the car, as if by magic she could make it get in without crunching something.

After several frustrating attempts, the "instructor" got back into the car, obviously finished with the night's lessons and ready to go home.

One problem. The car was properly parked at this time and the student couldn't get out. So out jumped the teacher again, got her pupil safely out onto Water Street and heading in the right direction.

The next step is to try a real parallel park, with a car behind too.

Then get the licence and hope there always is an angle spot, open along Bernard, or Queensway.

Richter Reviews B.C.'s Good Life

Forty-five residents from Premier Bennett's South Okanagan backyard at Westbank turned out to review the Socred menu prepared by Mines Minister Frank Richter Monday, and liked what they heard.

Expecting the light informality of a social evening, the MLA didn't blink a political posture following an abrupt introduction to the gathering by Ted Thornton, local Socred president. His campaign guns were loaded and ready, and his aim at the New Democratic Party target was deadly steady. One of the first salvos was why the premier called an election.

"He calls an election only when he feels it is in the best interest of the people to do so," the mines minister told the gathering. He said the decision to go to the people was made "on this basis only."

NDP CRITICIZED

Taking a bead on NDP promises, the speaker accused the opposition of wanting to "experiment with the province."

"British Columbia can't stand the risk of being experimented with," he added, and warned of dangers of putting an "inexperienced" government in power.

"Because of the premier," he told the meeting, "we are in the best financial position of any province in Canada." The province's credit rating on Wall Street was "AA", topped only by that of the federal government.

Plucking random plums from the Socred progress tree, Mr.

Expected New Legislation To Replace 1953 Standards

Stiffer pollution control measures are expected soon from the federal government.

Individuals and groups in the Okanagan will likely welcome news of control measures expected to come from the capital.

A Canadian Press story tells what might be expected by industries and municipalities which use public water for discharging waste.

OTTAWA (CP) — A joint federal-provincial approach to water conservation requiring the polluters of water to pay for correcting the damage done, is being prepared by the federal government.

A policy embodying the proposals is expected to be issued soon by Otto Lang, minister in charge of energy and water resources.

It is believed the statement proposes new legislation replacing the 1953 Canada Water Conservation Act which has proved to be too restrictive for general application.

Under the new plan, informants say, the federal government will try to establish inter-governmental committees composed of federal and provincial officials to examine all water pollution problems.

The joint approach would get around the jurisdictional problem of determining which lakes and rivers are of federal concern, and which are provincial.

Individual areas of pollution control whether lake or river basins, would be governed by water quality management bodies appointed by the two levels of government and representing local interests. Each would be an independent corporation, with its headquarters in its own area.

These bodies would be empowered to determine what needs to be done to overcome pollution, and to set fees for industries or others using water for the disposal of their waste products.

This supposedly would include municipalities.

The fees would be sufficient to cover the cost of overcoming pollution. They would also encourage industries and others to install equipment aimed at overcoming the cause of pollution.

Informants also say the new act would empower the courts to levy stiff fines on anyone fouling the waters of an area under control of a quality-management body.

In cases where the federal government could not obtain provincial collaboration, but where it believed quality management necessary, the federal government would seek powers to act independently. It now is regarded as generally responsible only for international, inter-provincial and boundary lakes and streams.

The new act would employ a broad definition of water pollution. It would be anything that deteriorates the quality of water used for any purpose by man, plants or animals useful to man.

Six Hurt, Three In Hospital After Two Traffic Accidents

Three people are in hospital after two separate traffic accidents in the city Monday.

In a "fair" condition with a broken leg is Alber Ian Hunt, Penitence, injured when his motorcycle was in collision with a car about 11:20 a.m. at the corner of Ellis Street and Harvey Avenue.

Driver of the car, Mrs. Eva G. Windrom, Winfield, was convicted today in judge's provincial court of failing to yield the right-of-way and was fined $50.

Two of six people injured in a two-car collision at Highways 97 and 33 are in hospital in "satisfactory" condition. The rest were treated and released.

Mrs. Louise Raduenz and her daughter Trudy, were kept in hospital. Alvin Raduenz, husband and driver of one of the vehicles, was released.

Ronald Phelps, Kelowna, driver of the other vehicle, was also treated and released. Police did not have the names of the other injured people, nor details of the accident, but said damage to one car was about $2,000. The accident occurred about 9 p.m. Monday.

In other police business, three trucks broke down when sugar was put in the gas tanks. Cedarwood Homes, Highway 97, reported someone had put the engine-clogging substance in the tanks during the weekend.

Mrs. Joyce Rozell, Winfield, reported hit-and-run damage to her car parked Monday at 8:30 p.m. at the Winfield Aquatic Club. Police had no estimate of damage.

Juvenile Liquor Offences Causing Concern To Police

Liquor offences among juveniles are on the rise and merchants in the Kelowna area are becoming apathetic about crime prevention, city council was told Monday.

Staff Sgt. K. A. Attree, in charge of the Kelowna detachment RCMP, reported since police of not prosecuting juveniles for liquor offences was evoked there has been an increase in offences of this nature.

He added that liquor offences for adults were normal.

"It will be noted that a total of 47 business premises were found open by our night patrols. The apathy on the part of some of the proprietors in this respect is not understandable," the sergeant's report said.

Staff Sgt. Attree said police activity in general has increased in the summer with 573 complaints received and investigated, which is 103 more than last year.

Prisoners expenses jumped to $707 compared with $655 the month before but only 1,100 parking tickets were issued in July.

There were 23 stolen in June and nine recovered.

Spend Time In Our Suite Citizens Tells Aldermen

Battered by "unbelievable noise", a resident at the corner of Abbott Street and Harvey Avenue has made a noise of his own to city council.

In a letter to the city, D. K. Penfold invited a representative of council "to spend some time in our suite and get a first hand impression of the situation — noisy mufflers of diesel, use of exhaust brakes, squealing of tires and motorcycles."

The letter prompted by the Blue Angels sonic boom, asked council to enforce the anti-noise bylaw. Mr. Penfold said he complained to the RCMP a year-and-a-half ago, but was told "it was progress."

"A dictionary definition of progress is improvement — and anything noisy is certainly not improvement," he commented.

The resident of the Parkview Apartments said the Blue Angels should have restricted their aerial acrobatics to the centre of the lake and not over the city where there is an anti-noise bylaw.

Mayor R. F. Parkinson, who said he agrees with Mr. Penfold, and can sympathize, reminded citizens that the special claims office processing damage done by the sonic boom will be open until the end of this week. The adjusters will collect and assess damage claims until then and then leave town. The mayor warned anyone with damage who has not claimed to do so before the office closes.

Mr. Penfold's letter was sent on to the RCMP, with a request to keep close control over noise-makers.

DROP CONTINUES

The level of Okanagan Lake continues its seasonal drop. The reading Monday was 101.23 feet, down 20 from last week's 101.43. The measure at the same time last year was 101.58 feet.

UNSETTLED weather conditions are forecast for today and Wednesday, with sunny periods mixed with cloudy intervals.

The expected fare for the next two days. A few showers are predicted in the northern sections of the Thompson and Columbia districts. Winds should be light. High and low Monday was 70 and 58, with a trace of precipitation. The temperature range for the corresponding period last year was 72 and 47. Low tonight, and high Wednesday should be 50 and 75.

Short Takes

Notice that the oil company workers on strike at the coast are now picketing the vehicles of third parties. Wonder if the strikers have ever considered—if they are consistent—that the cars of the strikers themselves and the picketers should also be picketed?

The premier suggests that the provincial government will not be called upon to honor its promise of a loan to Commonwealth Trust if the shareholders show their good faith by investing another $1 million in the company. It is doubtful if he ever expected to be called to honor the promise. After all who is foolish enough to throw another million into an already shaky outfit in the hope of government help which might or might not help a recovery? Even when the promise was made, there was never a chance of it being implemented.

When a high ranking official of the United States travels abroad, to say, South America or Asia, more often than not he gets an extremely hostile reception. When Mr. Eisenhower was president his advisers cancelled a presidential visit to Japan because they feared for the president's safety. Mr. Nixon, when vice-president, was stoned and spat upon in Latin America. More recently the president's personal representative, Nelson Rockefeller, got the same kind of treatment. In many cases the moving spirit behind the hostility, the disturbances and the riots have been Communists or Communist sympathizers. What should one expect, then, when the president of the United States visits a country that has had a Communist government for a quarter of a century? We had the answer a couple of weeks ago when Mr. Nixon visited Romania. There, an estimated 500,000 people, waving Romanian and American flags, lined the 12-mile route and cheered Mr. Nixon uproariously. There were no unpleasant incidents. The obvious lesson to be drawn from this incident is that to people who have had a Communist government for 25 years, the United States doesn't look so bad.

Just about all the car manufacturers have called back cars for adjustments of some sort. Now we read that in an effort to repair a brake defect in 4,000 school buses one of the companies has found that the repairs have created another defect and those 4,000 buses can't be used again until they have repaired the repairs. It's comforting to know at last that not even a vast corporation is immune to the jinxes and the gremlins.

Across the border in our neighboring state of Washington they are having a three month trial of bigger trucks on the highways. Bigger? Triple-hitch affairs, 94 feet long and seven sets of wheels! They've been labelled "mastadons" and "behemoth". As might be expected, there is an adverse public reaction. The big vehicles are designed to save the trucking company money, but what about roads and highways which were never built to carry such loads? And what about the temper of the driver who is behind one of these things on wet roads? It's in Washington, yes, but let them get in there and how soon before there will be an attempt to get them on B.C. roads. Imagine being behind one of those things on the Hope-Princeton!

We've hardly grown accustomed to hearing that some folks are now carpeting their kitchens and bathrooms, let alone their swimming pools and outdoor patios, and now along comes a report that a farmer has installed the stuff in, of all places, his cow shed. Keeping the cows in the lap of luxury? Not so. This farmer is using his head. It seems one of his 400 cows slipped on a wet cement floor and broke her hip. Rather than cry over spilt milk cow, the farmer decided to try outdoor-indoor carpeting. All areas where a cow might slip on the cement floor were covered in durable and soothing summer green. A good cow can cost $3,000 or more. The farmer figures his outlay of less than $1,000 for carpeting was a small price to pay to give sure footing for 1,600 pitter-patter hooves. So far we haven't seen a report that the cows have started grazing on the carpet. They seem to be contented and so is the farmer.

Ontario Ahead

Among recommendations recently submitted to the provincial cabinet by the B.C. Pollution Control Board was the suggestion that, effective at the beginning of 1971, all new licensed gasoline-powered motor vehicles sold in the province should be required to have pollution control devices "as developed by that time by the motor vehicle industry." If the British Columbia government accepts the recommendation and doesn't go beyond it, this province will still be a long way behind Ontario.

The Ontario cabinet has just issued new regulations to cut exhaust pollution from cars and trucks manufactured in 1970 by 30 per cent from current allowable levels. The new standards will be enforced on the roads by mobile testing vans, equipped to measure hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions and, in the case of diesel trucks, the opacity of the exhaust. The regulations set out how the manufacturers are to determine pollution levels allowable in their new cars and trucks, and require them to apply for a certificate of approval of new control systems.

Since Ontario is the biggest provincial market for cars in Canada, it may be that the manufacturers will gear all their products to that province's demands. But it certainly would help ensure this result if British Columbia, the province with by far the highest percentage of car owners among its residents, were to adopt the Ontario regulations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

AMAZED

It was with amazement that I read of the dismissal of Mr. Brown as Kelowna's recreation director. His work on behalf of the youth of this city is outstanding. His skill in organization and true ideals of sportsmanship are well known and appreciated.

One wonders about the motives of those who brought about an end to this. As a parent, teacher and taxpayer I feel much concerned.

Yours sincerely,
MARGARET RATCLIFFE
(Mrs. F. J. Ratcliffe)

REGATTA ENJOYED, BUT...

Sir: I was one of many visitors over the weekend to your annual Regatta and I enjoyed the event very much.

However it was my misfortune, while on the way back to my accommodations late Saturday night, to squal my car tires when leaving an intersection out by the Capitol Hotel. Your local RCMP pulled me over to the side of the road and informed me there was a law against that kind of thing and it would cost me $50. I was also informed that it would do me no good to come back to Kelowna for the trial because your local magistrate always imposed the $50 fine for this violation.

I do not deny that my tires made a squeal when leaving that intersection, but I was not travelling at an excessive speed. Under the laws of the city I am guilty of making excessive noise.

I believe that during this Regatta things were the noisiest ever. (Sound barrier). Also if you don't get up at 8 a.m. sharp during Regatta the race boats don't allow one to sleep.

As a visitor to your city and not knowing this bylaw and also the fact that I was on my way to my accommodations, an explanation and warning ticket would certainly have sufficed.

I am going to pay this fine, as I am in court would cost me more in lost time.

I enjoyed your Regatta and hospitality of your citizens but a fine of $50 for squealing one's car tires will definitely keep me away from your city from now on.

Yours truly,
KEN BOYD
1880 Greer St., Vancouver 9.

TOURIST "UNWELCOME"

Sir: As a tourist in Kelowna at the annual Regatta, I felt very unwelcome. May I suggest that for next year you place bulletins to the public around the city giving information as to the public camping sites and rules which tourists should follow while in Kelowna.

The Westbank before the bridge is Indian Reserve property. I understand, and I, as well as others, was awakened at 5:30 a.m. Friday morning to be informed by the RCMP of this fact. Why are there no signs at the beginning of this road saying "Indian Reserve—No Camping—Keep Out"? Hence, many of us spent following nights at your viewpoint, and to other tourists it cannot be too beautiful a sight to see rows of sleeping bags laid out at the viewpoint. There were many young people in Kelowna for the rock festival—where are they expected to sleep?

For those unable to have accommodation in motels, or unable to afford them, camping facilities are necessary. The residents would be annoyed to have cars full of people in front of their houses, fast asleep. The service stations are to be thanked for their friendliness—I never heard one complaint about the people using their restrooms for a morning wash.

One last point is that along the bridge there are signs for no stopping, but during the air show Thursday afternoon, we were fined as were a few others for stopping to watch this. The tow truck parked directly in front of us, making it impossible to move on, while the RCMP demanded $6 or the car would be towed away. I received no receipt from the towing firm and had to go to the RCMP station to get one. Why fine a few people instead of all? During the recent Jehovah Witness convention in Vancouver, fines for the witnesses were written off for their overparking and the like, as they would be spending a great deal of money in Vancouver. I am not a Jehovah Witness, but if I were I would appreciate this friendly service of the city.

Perhaps a word of warning around the city to tourists would aid them next year as it is not much fun, being afraid of the RCMP all the time one is on vacation.

Yours sincerely,
JENNIFER WATKINS,
Vancouver.

BLACK DATE

Mark Aug. 12, 1969, as a black date in the history of Kelowna. On this day, the City of Kelowna saw fit to fire Jack Brown, recreation director. During Jack's nine plus years in this capacity, he has developed the greatest recreation program in the province of British Columbia. This has not come easy to this "practical" man. During this time the average working day was in excess of 12 hours. Of course, something had to suffer and it did—his own family. So dedicated to his job was Jack that he often put the welfare of the citizens of Kelowna ahead of his own family. Not only was he involved with the children of this city, but he also had time for the teen-agers, the young adults, and the aged, whether they be athletes, handicapped, or just a person interested in achieving some type of recreational fitness.

No person is more well known and liked by the people of Kelowna than Jack Brown. This speaks for itself.

Of course, Jack had his faults, but doesn't everyone? Jack's faults were far outnumbered by his attributes. One simply does not gain the type of popularity that Jack gained by sitting around waiting for others to do the work.

The co-operation that exists between Jack and the physical educators in our schools is unsurpassed anywhere. The physical educators were always willing to make room for the recreation program, as we knew the same type of co-operation would exist had we need for help—which we often did.

If our city fathers see fit to release a man of this calibre, our city can only suffer.

On behalf of all secondary school physical educators, I would like to take this opportunity to thank Jack Brown for his untiring, unselfish, and devoted work in making Kelowna a better place to live.

Yours truly,
DAVE TURKINGTON,
Athletic Co-ordinator
School District 23 (Kelowna)

BIBLE BRIEF

"But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him." 1 Corinthians 2:9.

If we could catch a vision of what He has done for us, and the place that He has prepared for us, it wouldn't be hard to convince man to do something for Him.

CANADA'S STORY

St. Lawrence Trip A Daring Adventure

By BOB BOWMAN

When Prime Minister Trudeau and President Nixon commemorated the 10th anniversary of the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway a few weeks ago, it would have been interesting if a replica of the steamer "Ontario" could have glided down the river to Lachine. It was on Aug. 19, 1840, that the Ontario achieved the daring feat of shooting the rapids to Montreal. The custom in those days was for passengers to use smaller vessels called "bateaux" to travel between Montreal and Prescott, while steamers like Ontario and Great Britain took them a little more comfortably between Prescott and Toronto.

Travelling down the river was daring and exciting, but the upward journey was slow and arduous, usually taking 13 days. In his book Pioneer Travel in Upper Canada Edwin C. Guillet quotes from the diary of a traveller in 1818. His mother and some small children slept in a tiny cabin so, he and his brother would sleep on the shore every night. It took from Aug. 18 to Sept. 1 to cover 120 miles. The passengers had to help the sailors pull the boat up the river, often wading in the water up to the armpits. Those who did not have cabins would have to sleep on the shore, wet, cold, and bitten by insects. The trip down the river was easier, but would sometimes take more than a week from Kingston to Montreal. John Graves Simcoe made the trip in 1796 and his wife wrote vivid descriptions of the voyage in her diary. She said that the boats going down the river through the rapids looked like race-horses trying to outrun each other, but sometimes they would be turned around by whirlpools, and appear to be buried by the waves. The lieutenant-governor enjoyed the trip but Mrs. Simcoe found it terrifying and wrote that there were occasions when she felt more like crying than talking.

OTHER EVENTS ON AUG. 19: 1712—Britain and France began four months truce.

1831—Ship Lady Sherbrooke lost off Cape Bay, Newfoundland, with 273 lives.

1916—Duke of Devonshire became Governor-General of Canada.

1942—Canadian losses heavy as combined operation tested German defences by raiding Dieppe.

1954—Right Hon. C. D. Howe received Guggenheim Medal for his part in development of aviation in Canada.

TODAY in HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Aug. 19, 1969: Canadians paid a heavy toll 27 years ago today—in 1942—when units of the 2nd Division raided the French town of Dieppe during the Second World War. Of the nearly 5,000 men who crossed the English Channel, 3,369 were killed, wounded or captured. The main body of attackers was stalled on the beaches and town. Despite the heavy loss, the attack was regarded by many military strategists as a valuable lesson for later seaborne landings.

1809 — Accommodation, the first Canadian steamship, was launched at Montreal.

1954 — The United States Congress approved a bill outlawing the Communist party.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1944—Allied Supreme Headquarters announced the battle of the west front was in the last stages of pursuit and annihilation. Polish troops of the Canadian Army linked up with United States patrols in the middle of the Falaise gap at Chambois; the Ploesti oil centre in Poland was bombed for the third consecutive day.

PROBE WRECK

CAMPBELLTON, N.B. (CP) — A research group, including 12 divers, is probing the remains of the French ship Mauchaut, sunk in the Restigouche River near here in 1760 during the Seven Years War. Mud from the hull is pumped to the surface where it is carefully screened for artefacts. A cannon is among the items recovered so far. The project is being carried out by the federal Indian affairs department.

START FOUNDATION

TORONTO (CP) — The Kidney Disease Foundation of Canada has formed a Toronto branch to raise $50,000 for research, public health education and life-saving medical equipment. William Blackburn of suburban Etobicoke, one of the first kidney transplant recipients in Toronto, is publicist for the city branch. The foundation, started in Montreal in 1961, has been active mainly in Quebec and recently extended its work to Ontario.

Political Flourishes Noted

VICTORIA (CP)—The British Columbia election campaign centred on highways and former highways minister Phil Gagliardi on Monday, as New Democratic Party leader Tom Berger promised to take politics out of building roads and Premier W. A. C. Bennett hung a full-time cabinet portfolio for Mr. Gagliardi in front of Kamloops voters.

Liberal leader Pat McGeer, meanwhile, claimed B.C. voters have become the victims of a "Berger-Bennett vendetta." Both majority party leaders are hungry for power, Dr. McGeer said in Richmond, and their campaign strategy is based on the premise that the way to achieve power is to divide the people into two power blocs.

Speaking in Mr. Gagliardi's hometown of Kamloops, the premier told 800 supporters in a 30-minute speech that their MLA "will be a full-fledged member" of the cabinet after the Aug. 27 election if the Social Credit party is returned to power.

Mr. Gagliardi resigned his post during the 1968 session of the legislature amid controversy surrounding his government's plan to build a highway that involved his sons. He became a minister without portfolio.

"Phil Gagliardi is going to win with a good majority in Kamloops," the premier told his largest indoor rally of the campaign. "He's going to be in this government for many years to come."

HECKLERS ACTIVE

A group of long-haired youths chanted "Oink, oink, oink" when Mr. Gagliardi was speaking and a shoving match started when some Social Crediters tried to eject them. Earlier, the youths joined a Social Credit motorcade with a truck bearing a swastika and the word "Pig" spelled out in Gagliardi bumper stickers.

The premier, who wept while Mr. Gagliardi introduced him, added another platform plank with the promise of a royal commission to investigate a system of negative income tax for B.C.

Under the system, a minimum income would be established and persons who earned less would be eligible for grants, instead of paying income tax.

"British Columbia will lead the attack at the next federal provincial conference to bring this great reform to all of Canada," the premier said.

Earlier in Kamloops riding, a group of citizens destroyed a sign proclaiming "Go Go Phil," written in 20-foot letters of powdered lime on the side of a mountain north of Kamloops.

The sign was obliterated. Ken Gillis, a spokesman for the group, which he said contained Social Credit supporters, said many people in Kamloops thought it was "a disgusting spectacle."

NO POLITICS

Meanwhile, NDP leader, Berger told a rally in Nelson, in Highways Minister Wesley Black's riding, that an NDP government would take politics out of highway building. It would be based on planning and consultation with local communities and on local and province-wide needs.

"All systems are go for highway construction during election campaigns but they stop as soon as the campaign is over. I think people are tired of a highway program designed to get votes."

Mr. Berger said earlier in Creston that the government is violating its own Human Rights Act. After seeing large newspaper advertisements inserted by the new B.C. Human Rights Commission saying it is illegal to discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, nationality or because of age if between 45 and 65, the NDP leader noted a second ad in the paper.

Inserted by the B.C. vocational school in Nanaimo, the ad asked for applicants for a logging instructor's position who "will be fully experienced in all phases of logging, be knowledgeable in up to date logging methods and be under 30 years of age." Mr. Berger said: "They bought one advertisement too many. This is a government that discriminates against the older worker."

EACH WAITING

On his Berger-Bennett "vendetta" charge, Liberal leader McGeer said to 600 supporters: "Each has been waiting for the other to make a mistake. Perhaps, says Mr. Bennett to himself, Mr. Berger will not be able to control the demands of labor all the way to the election date. Perhaps we can manoeuvre him into a large and unpopular strike."

"Perhaps, says Mr. Berger to himself, we can force Mr. Bennett into invoking his hard-line strike-breaking laws, then all the union votes will come to the NDP."

Dr. McGeer said the issue is extremism versus moderation — "the issue of whether fear and partisanship should decide the result of this election."

He said a responsible campaign should have been fought on the real priorities—the high cost of living, education, care for the elderly, hospital facilities, pollution control and B.C.'s future in a new and changing Canada.

Later Monday night, in Victoria, Dr. McGeer said the Liberals would not support any minority government, whether Social Credit or NDP.

The Liberals held six seats in the last legislature. Social Credit held 31, and NDP 17. There was one vacancy in the 55-seat house.

LONG HISTORY
QUEBEC (CP)—The eight-foot-thick stone walls and underground caverns of the Talon Vaults at the foot of Palace Hill could tell many stories. New France administrator Jean Talon ordered the vaults to be constructed in the mid-1600s to hold and age beer. After brandy smuggling increased, the vaults were converted into a military prison in 1688. They had a third career as a warehouse for ice, beer and furs in the 1840s and have ended up as an historical site supported by a Canadian brewery.

Anonymous Donor Makes Possible East Kelowna W.I. Ward

EAST KELOWNA (Special)—The disbanded members of the East Kelowna Women's Institute had a very pleasant surprise upon hearing of an anonymous donor to the WI to complete the amount of $1,000 that was contributed to the Kelowna General Hospital in the spring. The WI had previously donated more than $700 to the hospital when their decision was to disband. With the generous donation recently, there will be sufficient funds for a ward in the new wing of the hospital to be named the EKWI ward.

The past secretary, Mrs. F. Mearns, was asked to write a letter expressing appreciation for the generous donation, a fitting memorial of every member who had belonged to the EKWI and a wonderful tribute to all the members since its formation in 1928.

Afternoon tea was provided by the hostess, Mrs. Manuel Stienke. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Stienke by Mrs. Gladys Dumbleton for a very pleasant day that was most enjoyable.

ANN LANDERS

Booze Will Not Solve Family Hair Issue

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has always been on the conservative side, until about six months ago when he decided to let his hair grow. I didn't say anything until his hair got longer than mine. Then I demanded that he get a haircut. He refused. To teach him a lesson, I took the scissors and gave myself a baldy bob. He said I looked like a billiard ball and called me a spiteful nut. I agreed to let my hair grow if he would cut his. His answer was "I refuse to be blackmailed. No deal."

Last night, out of sheer frustration (and after a few drinks) I went to the bathroom and shaved my head. I walked into the room and said, "How do you like this?" He nearly died. Now my husband refuses to be seen with me until my hair grows out. I realize I made a mistake but I feel his terms are too harsh. What do you say, Ann?

Dear Vergo: Buy a wig and stay away from the booze.

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column you told teen-agers where to go if they suspect they have VD. I am 35 years old. All my life I've heard about VD. Everyone says, "Go to a doctor if you recognize any symptoms." Good advice, of course—but what are the symptoms? Is it a pimple, a boil, a running sore, a scaly patch? Is there pain? Do symptoms appear in areas other than the genitals? They say VD can be cured if you get it early. How early is early? Two days? A week? A year?

Won't you please devote a column to this important subject? The amount of ignorance among adults as well as teen-agers is appalling.—N.D. Reader

E. Kelowna Man Transferred To Prairie Province Post

David Evans, who was employed with the Metropolitan store, Kelowna, has been transferred to Saskatoon, Sask. Mr. and Mrs. Evans and baby daughter left Kelowna recently to make their home there. Tom Evans accompanied his brother and sister-in-law to spend a holiday there before returning home.

Home after a 10-day camping and fishing trip are Mr. and Mrs. Rex Fitz-Gerald, who were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Malen, McCulloch Road. The foursome motored as far as Hazelton also stopping at other points of interest but spent more time at Moricetown where the fishing was very enjoyable.

Friends of Miss Sally Evans will be pleased to hear she is much better following an operation in the Kelowna General Hospital.

Maureen Fitz-Gerald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Fitz-Gerald has returned home following a holiday in Merritt with her girl friend Sharon McDonald.

All Female Real Estate Office Will Treat Men As Equals

VICTORIA (CP) — Shirley Philips is going to give men an even break, because if women are to be treated as equals, it follows that men should be equal also.

Shirley runs a real estate business in Victoria that topped the $8,000,000 mark in sales last year, without the help of any men. All her 1968 staffers, including 26 real estate salesmen, were women.

But this year things are different. Two men, Bob Calderwood, 30, and Jack Waldron, 49, have joined the agency to form the nucleus of a men's division and five other candidates started a three-month pre-licensing course in August.

Both Bob and Jack are glad the battle of the sexes is over. The all-women firm was founded nearly four years ago, and Shirley limited staffers to members of her own sex because it made sense to do so, she said.

"SWINGING OFFICE" "I felt women know a great deal about homes. . . . Women are the ones who choose homes, and most husbands like to please their wives."

The firm's sales show she was right, so what made her decide to open the doors to men? "I feel there is a place for them . . . especially where commercial properties are concerned," she said.

Jack Waldron, whose wife

BEAUTY IN THE RAIN

Even in the Okanagan it rains occasionally but the quest for scenic wonder and unusual camera shots should not be deterred by precipitation. This scene of raindrops falling on a bullrush encircled pond in the Kelowna area is proof of the fact that even when the weather is something less than the usual Okanagan sunshine there is beauty to be seen and scenery to be captured for posterity. This is just another in a series of Courier photos of the Okanagan scenery.

Still More Guests Coming To Rutland

RUTLAND (Special)—Guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Befus are Mrs. Befus' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Roth from Calgary.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carlson is their son, Eldon Nichols, Sandra and Jan from Sacramento.

Dr. and Mrs. Ron Neufeld from Loma Linda University, California, have arrived in Rutland where Dr. Neufeld has set up a dental office. Dr. Neufeld grew up in the Okanagan. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Neufeld of Grandview Flats, near Armstrong.

Miss Jane LeGresley, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Anne LeGresley, has arrived here from Toronto. Miss LeGresley will be the instructor in French at the Okanagan Academy. She has returned from studying in Europe where she attended the Adventist College in Cologne.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wagner are enjoying a visit from their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Wagner, Karen, Carolyn and Brian from North Surrey and their daughter, Elaine, Mrs.

Einar Vinquist and Dena from Victoria.

Visiting Alfred Diebel is his sister-in-law and her daughter Mrs. Harold Diebel from Unity, Sask. and Mrs. Lorna Boetcher and girls from Lacombe, Alta. Marvel Wells, a student nurse from the Adventist nursing school in Toronto, flew home to visit her mother, Mrs. A. J. Wells and her brother.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Walker from Mission City are visiting Elery Walker's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carlson.

Pastor and Mrs. Herb Larsen and family from Calgary are visiting Mrs. Larsen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arno Schneider. Mr. and Mrs. Arno W. Schneider Prince George, joined them.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spent had a visit from their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Olen Nations from Grants Pass, Oregon.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Ritchey are Mr. and Mrs. Wally Diminyatz from Burnaby.

Rain Finally Frees Man, 55, Pinned 5 Days Under Tractor

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A college professor who farms as a hobby says he was pinned five days under an overturned tractor until rain softened the earth so he could crawl out.

Dr. Julius E. Schulz, 55, was in hospital here with fractured ribs and possible internal injuries.

"Thank God, he's a strong man," his wife said Monday. "A lesser man could not have survived."

Schulz is six feet, four inches tall, and weighed 290 pounds before his ordeal. The family lives in Kansas City and Schulz teaches education at Northwestern Missouri State College at Maryville, Mo. The farm is near Maryville.

Schulz went to the farm last Monday and began mowing a pasture. The tractor fell into a 12-foot ditch, trapping Schulz.

The professor said he was thrown partly into a stream, and had to prop his head up with a shoe to keep from drowning. He said he also removed his shirt and strained water through it for drinking.

"All the while he kept taking his pulse to find out how much more he could take," his wife said he told her.

Schulz said he was able to dig himself free early Saturday after three days of rain. He crawled nearly a quarter of a mile to his car and drove to a neighboring farm. An ambulance brought him to Kansas City.

"TAKE TIME OUT"
CALGARY (CP)—Canadiana should take time out in their great rush towards prosperity to measure the costs and redefine their goals, the president of the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards said here Monday. Dennis R. Stewart of Edmonton told a Calgary service club that inflation has created a grave situation.

Rutland's Rev. Hall Leaves And Successor Takes Over

RUTLAND—Rev. Howard R. Hall occupied the pulpit at the Rutland United Church on Sunday morning last for the closing service of his ministry here. The church was filled for the 9:30 a.m. service. Many expressions of regret at his decision to leave were heard, the Rev. and Mrs. Hall having made a great many friends while resident here. In addition to his ministerial duties Rev. Mr. Hall had been active in fraternal and other organizations, particularly the local Lions Club. Rev. and Mrs. Hall are leaving for a two weeks vacation at Boseman, Mont., and will return to Kelowna at the end of their holiday.

Attending this Sunday's service was Mr. Hall's successor, Mr. Frank Lewis, a student minister, not yet ordained, but when six years of experience in full ministerial work as lay supply. It is anticipated that he will become a fully-ordained minister at an early date. Mr. Lewis is married, and has three children, the oldest, William, being a grain buyer for the Wheat Board, residing at Sabine, Alta. A married daughter, Mrs. Thomas Hanna, lives at Dease Lake, on the Yukon border. The youngest, a daughter, Joyce, 14, is presently visiting in Alberta, and was attending a university. Mr. Lewis served in the Air Force during the Second World War, and was subsequently in the civil service for 17 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis have already taken up residence at the manse.

Fall Fair Time Drawing Closer

Another Peachland Fall Fair is approaching with Sept. 3 earmarked as the final day for entries to be submitted to Mrs. D. N. Cousins.

Entries, which will be placed in dozens of home art categories in junior and senior sections will be on display from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the community hall, Sept. 5.

Prizes, which range from cash to silver cups and trophies, will be awarded at 8 p.m.

All articles exhibited must be made or grown by the exhibitor with the exception of centrepieces for the tables and bowls of fruit.

The largest categories will be cooking, needlework, flowers and vegetables but there will also be prizes awarded for photography, handicrafts, ceramics and painting.

Peachland Swim Program Classed As 'Best Ever'

PEACHLAND (Special)—The second Peachland Parks and Recreation Commission's awards night was held at the Recreation Hall where all children taking part in the Red Cross Swim Classes second session were awarded certificates. A large crowd of children and parents was in attendance. The chairman of the commission, Ted Beet, opened the ceremonies by thanking all for their attendance and congratulating all the children on their achievements. He also thanked this year's instructors, Mrs. Paul Gluschenko, Linda Sanderson and helper Cindy Stuart for their time and effort which all went to make this year's swim program the most successful ever. He introduced Mayor Harold Thwaite, who then introduced Pat Bravant, the hardball coach who had been honored by the commission at its last awards night although had at that time been unable to attend in person. The crowd gave Mr. Bravant a round of applause. Mayor Thwaite then called out the names of swimmers who had participated and handed out certificates. First to be presented were to eight women who took part in the first adult swim class ever to be held in the community. Now the ice has been broken the commission hopes this will become an annual class.

Senior swimmers receiving certificates were Cathy dene Stym and Nancy Zuk. Intermediates: Patti Bryant, Patricia Taylor, Clive Sutherland, Timothy Edstrom, Daryl Turner, Cathy Phillip, Kelly Milroy, Jerry Beet, Ricky Kalchuk, Jennifer Allan, Erin Freeman, Ian Freeman, Wendy Cinnamon, Allan Irwin.

Beginners: Lisa Moric, Kelly Milroy, Randy Stewart, Collin Bryant, Drew Stewart, Danny Milroy.

First beginners: Marjorie Taylor, Kathleen MacNeill, Carol Fipke, Allan Milroy, Patricia Taylor, Clive Sutherland, Timothy Edstrom, Daryl Turner, Cathy Phillip, Kelly Milroy, Jerry Beet, Ricky Kalchuk, Jennifer Allan, Erin Freeman, Ian Freeman, Wendy Cinnamon, Allan Irwin.

Peachland Woman Back Home After Touring British Isles

PEACHLAND (Special)—Mrs. L. M. Gerrie is home again after a month's holiday in the British Isles where she visited Scotland, England and Wales and was lucky enough to be in Belfast, North Ireland, for the famous July 12 parade. She returned to Canada via London to Toronto and on back to Vancouver, her starting point. Since returning to Peachland she has had many visitors at her home on Beach Avenue, who included Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Russell from Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Arling Gibbutt and family from Nipawin, and the Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Hooper and family from Cheamus and Mr. and Mrs. John Elworthy from North Vancouver.

Present guests of Mrs. Gerrie are her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jeffries and family also from North Vancouver. Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bradbury on Princeton Avenue were Mrs. Bradbury's brother, Fred Youngson, and his son-in-law, Bob Crowie from Hanna, Alta.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Whinton on Whinton Crescent were Jack Williams and his son Locke from Gibsons, Alta., Sqn. Ldr. and Mrs. Bob Leeson, formerly from Trenton, Ont., now touring around B.C. before deciding on a new home. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Whinton.

They're Quaking At This Show

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Officials at the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History are a little shaky about the thief who stole a 15-minute film of the 1906 San Francisco earthquake.

They're afraid he might try to show it.

The movie, in addition to its age, has a nitroglycerine base. If viewed on modern-day equipment, it might explode—endangering the projectionist and possibly others present.

The film, described as the only copy in existence, disappeared from a desk at the museum during the weekend. A museum curator estimated its value at $5,000.

Great beer flavor begins right here

In this modern plant of Interior Breweries, advanced production methods are combined with a high degree of human skill, to create a great selection of beers and ale.

While the plant is of recent construction, the men who operate it represent more than 50 years of experience in the brewing industry. Working with the finest raw materials, they achieve a level of quality which is gaining renown throughout the southern Interior.

The next time you crave a great beer, remember our plant in the mountains—where the beer is brewed right for your enjoyment.

SMILES OF EXPERIENCE

You'd smile too if your "office" was a brand new, luxurious jet.

Judy Is. Judy Loken works in one; she's a Pacific Western stewardess. Our girls have been to more than 20 countries, Judy has travelled better than half a million miles. We call them miles of experience, miles along which Judy was treating our guests with typical Pacific Western hospitality. We put Judy through our 32nd class. (All our girls spend a term at our school, learning all about the stewardess business). Same hospitality anywhere you fly with us. Like along our scheduled Vancouver, Penticton, Kelowna, Cranbrook and Calgary route. Fly with us; we're the ones with miles of experience. And Judy. Who smiles.

It's An 'Odious Occupation' But Teachers Meet Anyway

FREDERICTON (CP) - The Canadian Council of Teachers of English, meeting in this New Brunswick capital for its annual convention starting Wednesday, has selected a site rich in Canadian literary history.
The house in which poet Bliss
Carman lived until 1886 is on Shore Street in Fredericton, but the teachers may be somewhat put off by the remark attributed to Carman - "The most odious occupation of mankind."

Another historic site is the house, now deanery to Christ Church Cathedral, lived in by Jonathan Odell, hailed in this area as "Canada's first poet."
A loyalist who fled the American Revolution, Odell later became New Brunswick's first provincial secretary.

At the University of New Brunswick is a plaque commemorating Julia Catherine Beckwith, born in Fredericton in 1796, whose book St. Ursula's Convent, published in 1824, was the first novel to be written by a native-born English-speaking Canadian. UNB has the original manuscript and one of the only three copies of the book known to be in existence now.

A claim on the UNB campus, unveiled in 1947, characterizes Fredericton as "The Poets' Corner of Canada" in recognition of the influence upon Canadian letters of the work of three locally born writers. These are Carman (1861-1929), first Canadian poet to command recognition beyond his own country; Sir Charles G. D. Roberts (1860-1943), dean of Canadian letters in his own

NORTHERN EDUCATION Native Rep Disappointed At Invitations To Meeting

MONTREAL (CP) - Roy
Daniels was disappointed Monday by the opening session of the first international conference on cross-cultural education in the North.

Mr. Daniels, 29, of Yellowknife, N.W.T., is a Company of Young Canadians volunteer active in organizing northern Indians and Eskimos and a Saul-teaux, one of the relatively few Indians or Eskimos attending the conference on educating northern native populations.

"There's always a lack of native people at conferences like this," he said in an interview.

"They (the white educationists and administrators) want the native viewpoint but they don't invite the natives. How do they expect to get any feedback on what their doing?"

"If this information were being fed back to the native population and the native organizations to let the native people know what is being discussed, then they could have a say."

Nearly 100 educationists and administrators from the seven countries whose territories surround the North Pole are participating in a four-day exchange of ideas and information on the education of northern native communities.

Frank Darnell, chairman of the four-day conference, said the organizers did not specifically invite native representatives because the aim of the conference is not to arrive at conclusions or make proposals.

Mr. Darnell, head of the education department of the University of Alaska, said the purpose of the conference is to take an "international inventory" of goals, methods and problems in educating the northern native peoples.

Mr. Darnell told a news conference that those natives attending the conference had been invited because they hold certain positions in northern education which had enabled them to acquire pertinent knowledge and experience.

Mr. Darnell also denied complaints from some participants that the conference was oriented toward the northern educational Establishment.

"The conference was designed to mix people with divergent views," he said.

Among those present were Dr.
Alexander Danilov, Soviet minister of public instruction, and five other Soviet educationists and government officials.

Other participants are from Canada, the United States, Finland, Norway, Sweden and Denmark, which administers Greenland.

The opening session was devoted to the presentation of papers on the education of Indians, Eskimos, Lapps and other northern native peoples.

One paper, prepared by UNESCO and delivered by Canadian-born J. C. Cairns, said administrators should be ready to accept the active participation in native education programs of the natives themselves.

It said minority groups need educational programs that prepare them for development and progress in two societies - their own and the "outside," or dominant one

Canadian Export Prices Climb Steeply This Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian export prices have climbed steeply this year, but the rate of increase may be moderating. Trade figures for the first half of 1969, released Monday, showed export prices in April were 4.6 per cent higher than in April last year.

In May and June, however, the year-to-year increase shown in preliminary figures is 4.3 per cent.

The average increase last year was 3.5 per cent.

Export prices this year are running 16.6 per cent ahead of 1968 prices, based on the 1948 index compiled by the trade department.

Statistics published by the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) in Paris show that German export prices have risen about 11 per cent in the same period.

Japan and Italy, two other OECD countries enjoying unprecedented prosperity, show remarkable export price performance in comparison with Canada.

The latest figures available show Japanese export prices up only three per cent this spring from 1968, while last fall, Italian export prices were actually four per cent lower than in 1968.

TOTAL EXPORTS RISE

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Monday that exports in July totalled $1,160,000,000, bringing the total for the first seven months of this year to $8,459,500,000. This is a 10.2-per-cent increase, but it includes price increase of more than four per cent.

At the same time, July imports amounted to $1,149,300,000, bringing the seven-month total to $8,214,700,000. Imports for the January-July period were 17.6 per cent higher than comparable imports last year.

The fast pace of imports and slower growth of exports cut the country's commodity trade surplus for the year to $244,800,000 at the end of July, from $690,700,000 at the end of July last year.

Opening lead—jack of hearts. Most players with an opening two notrump bid, but even the most dogmatic of them would probably approve South's two notrump bid in this case, considering the clubs to be worth one or two points more than their face value.

However, they might not endorse South's method of play at three notrump. He won the jack of hearts with the king and cashed the A-K-Q of clubs. When West showed out, declarer, with fingers crossed, led another club, hoping to find the hearts favorably divided, but East won the club and returned a heart to put the contract down one.

Of course, South would have made the hand had he found the clubs divided 3-3 or West with four of them, and to that extent he was unlucky.

However, his method of play was far from correct. Starting as he did with eight tricks, South should have taken better aim for his ninth trick.

His major concern should have been to try to avoid East's taking the lead for the potentially fatal heart return through the Q-7. All his efforts should have been addressed to this one possibility.

South should have entered dummy with a diamond at trick two and led a low club next. With East following low, South finesse the heart, not expecting the deep finesse to win, but attempting merely to establish his fifth club as the ninth trick.

As it happens, West wins the eight with the ten but cannot stop the contract, whatever he returns. So South's thoughtful planning succeeds and he is rewarded for his care with nine tricks.

Note that this method of play succeeds whenever the clubs are divided 3-3, 4-2, or even when East has five or six to the J-10. It makes South a more than 10 to 1 favorite to make the contract.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

A good planetary day! Much can be accomplished if you put forth your best efforts and cooperate with business associates and superiors. In fact, earning the good will of superiors now could put you in the way of winning some unexpected — and enduring — benefits.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that you should make it a point to put forth your very best efforts immediately. This goes for all activities—job, financial and personal. Stellar influences now stimulate bright ideas for making progress and the ingenuity needed to put them over so, if you get busy now and follow through consistently, you should retain fine results from your endeavors by the end of 1969. In this connection, it would be advisable to note that the three months beginning on Sept. 1 will be most auspicious for career interests, while the three months beginning on Oct. 1 will encompass a splendid period for increasing financial assets. Do not yield to extravagant whims during mid-October and early November, however, despite the star-promised gains, since you may be faced with some unexpected expenses.

As for 1970: Career achievement by Nov. 30 of this year should spark still further progress next January, March and June, and fiscal stability, which you can acquire before Jan. 1, could give you leeway to expand and further increase assets in late March and during another splendid two-month cycle beginning on May 1. Creative workers — and Leo boasts many — should experience highly productive (and profitable) outlets for their talents in September, November, January, March and June.

Personal interests will also be under extremely generous influences for most of the year ahead, with emphasis on romance during the balance of this month, in late November, December, May and June; on travel: The next three weeks, October, January and mid-1970. If careful to avoid friction in close circles in mid-September, when you may be inclined to make mountains out of the proverbial molehills, you should find your domestic and social relationships most harmonious during the year ahead.

A child born on this day could excel in the law, the arts or the theatre.

B.C., Ontario Dominating Canada's Summer Games

HALIFAX (CP) — Although other triumph to bring the total gold medal count to 12 after two days of competition.

British Columbia was close on the heels of Ontario with nine gold, 12 silver and six bronze medals.

Ontario had a single silver medal and four bronze.

Today's calendar called for action in baseball, field hockey, tennis, soccer, women's softball, swimming and diving. Lawn bowling and sailing were scheduled to end.

Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia were leading separate divisions in field hockey.

Nova Scotia and Ontario lead two of the divisions in soccer but Saskatchewan, Newfoundland, B.C. and Manitoba were tied for the top in the other two.

B.C. LEADS

As for sailing, B.C. was leading in the flying juniors, Nova Scotia in sailing and Quebec in the OK dinghies.

Ontario leads one section of the women's softball, but Manitoba crept into a tie for first place with Alberta in the other division.

In baseball, Nova Scotia leads section B and there was a three-way tie atop section A—Ontario, B.C. and New Brunswick.

Groff Overcomes Big Lead Wins Three-Metre Diving Title

HALIFAX (CP) — "Just call me the comeback kid," grinned Frank Groff Monday after beating Ken Sully, his buddy and rival, in the three-metre springboard diving event at the Canada Games.

Sully's 34-point lead over the wiry Vancouver student entering the last three of 11 dives looked insurmountable until Groff climbed the tower and executed two near-perfect dives, the last one "the best of my life."

Groff won over the 18-year-old from White Rock, B.C. 432.66 points to 430.47.

British Columbia and Ontario swept all the swimming events. Angela Coughlan of Burlington, Ont., Bill Kennedy of London, Ont. and Donna Gurr of Richmond, B.C., picked up a gold medal for the second night in a row.

Swimming resumed today in the 100 and 200 metres freestyle, the 200-metre butterfly and 400-metre medley relay. Divers have the day off and complete their events Wednesday, last day of the Games' swimming and diving competitions.

Groff's performance, in temperatures that hit the high 80s, earned him a second gold medal. He scored an easy triumph Sunday in the one-metre springboard dives.

WINS SPRINGBOARD

Earlier, Nancy Robertson of Edmonton, fought off a late challenge by Kathy Rollo of Saskatoon to win the women's three-metre springboard event. "I almost lost my cool in that one," said Nancy, who rolled up 378.06 points to 340.42 by Miss Rollo.

Groff, 22, of Vancouver, was behind by seven points entering the last dive. Diving just ahead of Sully, Groff's 1-2 somersault and 1-2 twists with a 2-9 degree-of-difficulty rating, drew him a string of eights from the judges.

Sully rushed the board on his last dive, scoring in the low fives.

"You might say he gave it to me," said Groff. "He had to be poor and I had to be good. He was poor."

"I don't know what happened to me," moaned Sully. "I had a good lead. There was no pressure, but I just couldn't get going."

The humidity bothered Miss Coughlan whose victory in four minutes, 44.1 seconds in the women's 400-metre freestyle matched her performance of Sunday night when she won the 200-metre freestyle.

"I had trouble breathing in the humid rink," she said.

GREAT THRILL

Kennedy, astonished at winning two golds in a row, said: "This is the greatest thrill of my whole career, greater even than being picked for the Pan-American Games team in 1967."

Touted two years ago as Canada's most promising young swimmer, Kennedy said he feels he is just beginning to mature.

The husky blonde scored a two-stroke win in the men's 200-metre backstroke in 2:17.3, adding to the gold he picked up Sunday in the men's 100-metre backstroke.

Miss Gurr came up with a four-second victory over Jeanne Warren of Vancouver, in the women's 200-metre backstroke. Her gold Sunday was in the 100-metre backstroke.

In other events Monday night, Jane Wright, 14, of Toronto, won the women's 100-metre breaststroke; Bill Mahoney of New Westminster won the same event in the men's section, and Ron Jacks of Vancouver won the men's 400-metre freestyle.

Young Harvey Fast Becoming Game's Top Baseball Player

HALIFAX (CP) — Ontario, which dominated rowing through early heats, capped it all at the Canada Games Monday by taking the gold medal in the fours with Cox.

It was a fourth gold medal for Ontario, which picked up two in swimming and one in the lawn bowling fours during opening competition Sunday.

British Columbia and Alberta each picked up two swimming golds at one in diving Sunday and were close behind Ontario.

There were 15 more gold-medal events on Monday's calendar.

Rowing was deciding medals in the fours, singles, doubles and eights.

Lawn bowling had a gold medal on the line in triples.

Cox Joel Finlay guided the St. Catharines crew to victory over silver-medalist Manitoba and bronze medal-winner B.C. Quebec was fourth in the final. The winning time was 4:10.5.

Scott Harvey Jr., of Marysville, N.B., who pitched New Brunswick to a 10-3 baseball victory over Newfoundland Sunday and contributed two home runs along the way, played third base for his team Monday.

New Brunswick was trailing 1-0 to B.C. in the bottom of the ninth in the Monday game when the young pitcher-infielder connected for a two-run homer to pull the game out.

"That's the greatest thrill," he shouted to reporters after the game.

Coach John Haar of Burnaby, B.C., the losing coach, said "I thought we had him."

"I thought we had that guy. He's not much of a hitter, but one bad ball cost us the game," Terry Beggs, a right-hander who attends Boise State College in Idaho on a baseball scholarship, took the loss. Keith Coughlin, who relieved Gerry Ouellette in the ninth, got the victory.

B.C.'s only run came on a balk.

Track And Field Meeting Tonight

A meeting of the Okanagan Track and Field Club—Kelowna division—will be held today at 8 p.m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Emslie, 809 Saucier Ave.

The agenda will include a financial statement, a review of this year's operation and whether or not to continue the club in its present form.

Another item of importance will be to decide whether or not to host the Canadian Junior Track and Field championships during the summer of '67.

Any interested person may attend.

CFL Trade Sends Bomber Star Raimy To Toronto For Gabler

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Toronto Argonauts announced an exchange of stars Monday and the only ones not smiling in the aftermath are the fans.

Winnipeg's brilliant Dave Raimy goes East under the terms of the five-player deal, while quarterback Wally Gabler comes West.

"I suppose some fans may be a little disappointed," said Bombers general manager Earl Lunsford, "but I expect many more will come out to see Gabler and watch a competitive team."

Winnipeg also gave up the rights to defensive halfback Chip Barrett who didn't show at this year's training camp. In return, they got an as-yet-unnamed player and Toronto's first choice in the 1970 Canadian college draft.

Counter to speculation, the mystery man of the trade won't turn out to be Bill Symons, Lunsford said a decision will be made known within the next ten days.

BOTH HAPPY

There's no argument on the part of the key men either. Gabler was as happy on his arrival in Winnipeg late Monday as Raimy was to leave.

"I knew I was going to be traded, but I didn't know it would be for Raimy," said Gabler.

"I'm really happy to be here and have the chance to play. That sitting on the bench is for the birds."

Raimy also felt he was leaving a troubling situation behind.

For Cahill, Raimy is just added dynamite to his potent running threat of Symons and Jim Thorpe.

For Zaleski, Gabler's presence means what all of Raimy's stunning performances couldn't give him—a calm and experienced hand at the helm.

Win For New Soccer Club

The Kelowna Montie's, a recently organized exhibition soccer club, travelled to Penticton Sunday and scored an impressive 7-2 win.

The club, made up primarily of former Kelowna Senior "B" players, broke the contest wide open in the second half scoring five unanswered goals after Penticton had held them to a 2-2 deadlock at the game's midpoint.

Playing-coach John Vuksic and ex-Vancouver player Ron Dewhurst led the Kelowna scoring with two goals apiece. Singles were added by captain Mike Whitaker, Mike Hrgovic and Joe Mezel.

The teams will play a return game Sunday in Kelowna's City Park oval at 6 p.m.

Errors Hurt Cincinnati Club Drops Sixth In Eight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Manager Billy Martin of Minnesota Twins wasn't wild about his relief pitchers and Cincinnati skipper Dave Bristol wasn't pleased with several of his butterfingers Reds.
 Both the Twins, leaders in the American League West, and Reds, pace setters in the National League West, lost some of their slim margins, as well as the games.
 Boston tied the Twins on Tony Conigliaro's three-run homer in the eighth off Bill Zepp and beat them 7-6 on George Scott's run-scoring double against Ron Peranoski.
 Dave Boswell, making his first appearance since his bally-hooded Aug. 6 fight with Martin and team-mate Bob Allison, checked the Red Sox on five hits through seven innings. The defeat sliced Minnesota's lead over idle Oakland Athletics to 1½ games.
 Five Cincinnati errors handed Pittsburgh Pirates 10 unearned runs, including two in the ninth and seven in the 10th, and a 12-5 triumph in the only National League contest, trimming the

Cronin Slaps Down Finley League Prexy Defends McLain

BOSTON (AP) — American League President Joe Cronin said Monday night he has ordered owner Charles O. Finley of Oakland Athletics to stop the practice of distracting opposing players by having his organist strike up the music while play is in progress.
 Cronin said he issued the order after receiving a report from the umpires who handled Sunday's controversial game in which Detroit Tigers pitcher

BOB KNOX SAYS:

BOB KNOX

I am deeply concerned about pollution and its effect on our community. I advocate immediate corrective measures.

KNOX — LIBERAL

POLLUTION:

Full and stern measures must be taken without delay to save our beautiful lakes, wherever water pollution is occurring.

This danger was recognized in the Okanagan by Dr. David A. Clarke in the early 1950's, and he has repeatedly raised the issue with Kelowna City Council. It is only recently that the Provincial Government has taken notice of this problem.

Cubs, Eugene Nearing Titles In PCL Divisional Races

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tucson Toros capitalized on three Eugene errors to take an early lead and went on to defeat the Emeralds 9-2 in a Pacific Coast League baseball game in Tucson Monday.

Playing before 1,572 fans, the Toros scored five runs in the second, with the help of the errors, making a downhill job for rookie pitcher Rich Hinton. Hinton limited Eugene to eight hits and struck out four in gain.

1968 Standout Not Backing Down

TORONTO (CP) — Bill Symons, halfback with Toronto Argonauts, said Monday night he is no closer to signing a new contract with the Eastern Football Conference team than he was at the beginning of the season.

He said coach Leo Cahill has not changed his offer.

"All he did was offer me a job with Bassett selling TV advertising."

John F. Bassett, chairman of Argos' board of directors, is the owner of a television station.

Symons said he rejected the offer Sunday night after Cahill had notified him earlier that he wanted a yes or no answer.

Symons, the Canadian Football League's most valuable player last year, said he is willing to play out his option.

Cahill said he hopes to sign Symons because he would play better if the worry about a new contract is removed.
